

Consultations- Surveys, Questionnaires, and Focus Groups

Cost: Free	There is no cost to take part in consultation
Time: Low	It is often only a short, one off commitment of your time
Requirements for Position: None	There may be certain requirements for different consultations, depending on age, area of resident for example. No formal qualifications will be required
Training Offered: No	No training is required to take part

A focus group is a group who look at special subjects and discuss them together, this may often only require an hour or two of your time.

Various opportunities for consultation will be advertised around your local area so look out for the chance to take part.

Involvement in a focus group, survey, or questionnaire only requires a short amount of your time and gives you a chance to provide feedback to different organisations.

For more information about Council consultation you can visit the Consultation and Research pages.

Take part in a consultation

There are various surveys, consultations, and focus groups across many different areas and they are a great way of being able to voice your opinion.

Questionnaires and surveys will either be postal, by telephone, face-to-face, or door-to-door. Therefore taking part in these is simple, free, and requires only a few minutes of your time.